NEIL HELLMAN LIBRARY: POLICIES

Security Alarm Search Policy

All students, faculty, staff and other visitors to the Library are on notice that your use of the library is acceptance of the College's policy that:

"All book bags, backpacks, and other bags are subject to search when the security system alarm is sounded or when a staff member has reason to believe that a crime has been committed (deliberate damage and/or theft of Library materials and equipment).

Library users caught intentionally damaging or attempting to steal any library materials or equipment will face sanctions at the College which could include being banned from the Library.

Students, faculty, and staff will be held responsible for all costs and fees with replacing the damaged and/or stolen items and will not receive any grades, transcripts, etc., until full restitution is made. Any theft or damage to materials, resources, and/or equipment may also be subject to criminal prosecution."
